

BE PART OF THE BIG PICTURE

BECOME AN NHS APPRENTICE

THERE ARE HUNDREDS OF DIFFERENT ROLES TO CHOOSE FROM

Allan Pugh

Advance Level Apprenticeship in IT Application Specialist

Wirral University Teaching Hospital - Learning and Development

Having worked in various IT and training roles over the years and picked up several qualifications along the way, I saw the apprenticeship as an opportunity to re-affirm my knowledge and skills and gain a very worthwhile, nationally recognised qualification at the same time.

With regard to successfully completing the course content and meeting the criteria and standards it allowed me to add new work streams to my job role in a very positive way that benefitted both WUTH and myself.

I very much enjoyed the apprenticeship and felt it was tailor-made for me with regard to the content and modules available to me to choose from. This flexible approach benefitted me greatly, enhancing the quality of my course work.

I am constantly learning and teaching myself new things but doing the apprenticeship afforded me the extra time to go into greater detail in some areas, enhancing my learning experience and overall apprenticeship experience.

“I would recommend an apprenticeship to anyone just starting work or who already has an established career as it provides a nationally recognised qualification and develops the individual.”

Find out more about NHS apprenticeships at www.stepintothens.nhs.uk
Alternatively search for 'apprenticeships' at www.jobs.nhs.uk

 #NHSapprentice

 /NHSapprentices